DESCRIPTION

This course examines the interaction between various institutions and actors that make up the field we call international political economy, and which in turn affect distributions of wealth and power on various levels. It is designed for students who are particularly interested in the interactions between states, markets, firms, NGOs, and not-for-profit organizations at the local, national, regional, and supranational levels. Most of our focus will be on how the world is structured and how power is distributed and exercised with special reference to trade, production, finance, and knowledge.

We will begin with a critical analysis of the major theoretical approaches to international trade and investment. In this analysis we will include the classical approaches such as mercantilism, liberalism, historical structuralism as well as recent debates emerging from postmodernism, feminism, and environmentalism. Building on this foundation we will examine the nature and effects of international “structures” of trade, production, finance, and knowledge, also paying critical attention to their appearances, power circulations, and what /who is occasionally absent from them. In the third section, we will focus on contemporary struggles among (and within) advanced industrial states over markets and protectionism. Among the issues of importance are conflicts over regional integration and competitiveness in Europe North America and East Asia including the challenges posed by rising powers from the “South”. Finally, we will explore North-South relations, by critically examining concepts and issues such as development and global governance.

Throughout the course our goal will be to appraise explanatory frameworks that can be applied to a diverse set of political issues. Students will be expected to critically assess theories of international trade; write intelligently about struggles between actors over power and resources; and connect current events to material discussed in the course. By the end of the course you will have gained a comprehensive overview of the major concepts, methods, and trends in international political economy.

REQUIREMENTS

• Attendance and participation

Regular attendance is a must if you are serious about your work and the grade you will receive. I expect everyone to be in class on time. Active participation in class discussions is encouraged and will be taken into account in calculating final grade.

• Readings

You are expected to have completed the readings before the first lecture of each week because lectures largely engage with the readings and move beyond them.

• Grading

There will be one compulsory midterm exam and one compulsory final exam.

Students will need to decide on the second midterm exam or term paper option immediately after the first midterm. These will assess your understanding of and engagement with the material studied. The exams will cover the readings and the lectures.

If you choose the term paper option, you will be expected to write a term paper of 3000 words on a question determined jointly with me. The question will have to be related to the issues we are covering and the themes we are exploring.

You are expected to submit a one-page outline of the term paper if you choose the term paper option. Late submission of the paper outline or the term paper will be subject to penalty of one point per day.

COURSE POLICIES

• 1. Make-Up Exams

Students who miss an exam and wish to write a make-up must contact the professor within 24 hours after the exam and must provide proper documentation for a reasonable excuse (e.g. a doctor’s note) before the make-up. There will be only one make-up per exam. Students who miss both the regular exam and the make-up will receive an exam mark of “0”.

• 2. Classroom Conduct

Students must attend lectures on time, and remain in the classroom until the end of the lecture, except during emergencies or with prior permission of the instructor. Students are expected to behave as mature and self-aware individuals in the classroom. Disruptive behaviour such as engaging in side conversations, using cell phones and other electronic devices, sleeping, working on personal activities or assignments of other courses, interrupting the professor or other students will result in the significant reduction of the attendance and participation grade. The professor within 24 hours after the exam and must provide proper documentation for a reasonable excuse (e.g. a doctor's note) before the make-up. There will be only one make-up per exam. Students who miss both the regular exam and the make-up will receive an exam mark of "0".

• 3. Academic Honesty

Honesty and trust are important to us all as individuals. Students and faculty adhere to the following principles of academic integrity at Koç University.

(i) Individual accountability for all individual work, written or oral. Copying from others or providing answers or information, written or oral, to others is cheating.

(ii) Providing proper acknowledgment of original author. Copying from another student's paper or from another text without written acknowledgment is plagiarism.

Recycling a paper written for another class also falls under this category.

(iii) Study or project group activity is effective and authorized teamwork. Unauthorized help from another person or having someone else to write one's paper or assignment is collusion.

Cheating, plagiarism, and collusion are serious offences resulting in an "F" as your course grade and disciplinary action.
