AN INTRODUCTORY NOTE TO STUDENTS:

I use my e-mail actively and recommend you do so since certain important class announcements will be made through email. Any questions sent to me by email will receive a response within three business days, or during the following class. E-mails must: contain your name, be written in proper English, and have the course code and name in the subject line. (Example: Erkam Sula - INRE503: About This Week's Readings)

COURSE DESCRIPTION:

This class is designed to introduce international relations (IR) students to modern diplomacy. The course deals with the origin and growth of diplomacy in order to help students better understand the world diplomatic history and system. In doing so, it also examines various types of diplomatic conduct. It looks at the past and future of diplomacy and illustrates certain mechanism to conduct international negotiations.

REQUIREMENTS:

- The course assumes prior knowledge of IR theories, concepts and familiarity with IR scholarship.
- According to the regulations of the University it is compulsory to attend at least 70 percent of the classes. However, for a full grasp of the course you are expected to attend ALL CLASSES.
- Please come to class well-prepared by reading the chapters and articles of the week. Otherwise, you will not be able to understand the debates and receive certain grade penalties.
- You will not receive the instructor's presentation slides. Voice recording and taking pictures without the instructor's consent is not allowed and will be regarded as a serious violation of class rules. Make sure you take proper lecture notes.
- Paper and other assignment deadlines are announced in this syllabus. Any change (unlikely) in the deadlines will be announced through email or in-class. There will be no extensions to the deadlines.
- DO NOT PLAGIARIZE: If you plagiarize from your previously submitted works, or from the work of others in your written assignments, you will receive a failing grade of 0 for the assignment.

GRADING:

Students are expected to accumulate grade points by reading course materials, attending classes, participating in class seminar discussions and completing certain assignments. The percentage that a student can collect from each grade component is as follows:

1. Participation & Attendance: Total Grade Points: 20%

Each week, student attendance and participation will be graded. Students are expected to attend ALL CLASSES and answer/pose questions about weekly readings and discuss with peers in seminar sessions. Every student is expected to read ALL must READINGS every week. The course is designed to follow a graduate seminar style where student actively engage in discussion with their peers. Please do not forget that it is compulsory to attend at least 70 percent (10 weeks) of the classes.

2. Student Presentations 20%

Each student will choose a reading from the further readings of the weekly course plan below, summarize that reading and answer a couple of questions posed by the instructor in class. Student performance will be assessed and graded by the instructor. After the class the students are expected to submit a written summary of the chosen reading.

Mid-term Exam: 20%

The Mid-term exam will cover the first half of the course topics. See weekly course plan below.

3. Final Exam: Total Grade Points: 40 %

The final exam will cover all topics covered in-class. Students will be asked to write one essay, define a couple of key concepts or answer a couple of Short-answer questions.

COURSE READINGS:

This course will follow a couple of books, certain chapters from others and research articles. Please ask for the course reader to the instructor. The required readings are listed in the weekly course plan below. Please also see the course readings - bibliography section at the end of the syllabus.
